

Dear Danielle,

Fall is creeping up on us!

Here's hoping that everyone had a fabulous summer, spent time outdoors and enjoyed the sun. There is still time to take one last trip up to the cabin or have a barbecue with friends and family. Make it a fun one!

It's also time for the kid's to go back to school and leaves to start changing. This is the time of year that I start to look ahead for fabulous fall scents. We have lot's of yummy products planned for this upcoming fall, so be sure to check us out!

Don't forget to check out our Buy Three Get One FREE Event! Details are listed below

Six ways to make spa-going more affordable

1. BE WEB SAVVY. Join as many spas' e-mail lists as your in-box can stand, and troll their sites frequently - most will post specials and discounts.

2. VISIT AT OFF-HOURS. "Mornings and midweek are the slowest times at spas," says Lynne McNees, director of the International Spa Association.

3. GO WITH FRIENDS. Booking with pals boosts your odds of scoring a deal. "Call the spa manager and say, 'I'm coming with friends, and we'd love to know what kinds of group specials you can offer us,'" advises McNees. Bigger groups garner bigger deals.

4. PLAY THE NEWBIE CARD.

"If you don't see a deal listed online for the spa you want to visit, call the spa director and tell her you've never been in but would love to experience the spa," McNees says. "If you don't ask, you'll never know what could've been."

5. REFER A PAL. Spas offer referral bonuses when your friend visits and cites your name.

6. BUY IN BULK. Spas also offer serious savings for folks who stock up on multiple sessions. If you don't see an enticing package, ask the spa director if she can create one.
