(extended) reunion. Every 5 years the Family Tree gets together in some cornfield (evidently where are ancestors landed -ever heard of a hotel?) in Nelson, Wisconsin for a day of bonding. Picture Field of Dreams meets Cousin Eddie (National Lampoon's Vacation). I arrive at the dust bowl, look around the crowd and seriously doubt I share any DNA with these people. Every time we get together there are three things that always happen.

- 1) A teenage niece (not sure who's) sneaks beer from the keg and proceeds to share with the under ten crowd where all of her tattoos and piercings are. (note-none of them are visible in her tank and shorts-nice!)
- 2) At least one relative has done jail time but it's very "hush, hush" on exactly what the crime was. (note to cousin-take off the legalize marijuana t-shirt, just a thought)
- 3) Time you can't get back, trying to figure out how someone is your second cousin, twice removed. (a party crasher, not even related)

After a long day of listening to over served uncles tell inappropriate jokes in mixed company and your great aunts argue over who's potato salad is better, you will need to unwind. Relax with a Blissful Bath bomb.
